Couldn't Lift Ten Pounds.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

Sick kidneys cause a weak, lame or aching back, and a weak back makes a weak man. Can't be well and strong until the kidneys are cured. Treat them with Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's the testimony of one man cured.

J. B. CORTON.
I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe.
This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I can never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago.
I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sit anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to any one suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so."

FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Corton will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-McMurray Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

A Thing Without a Definition.

When you see a man or woman in a large or small community, who will stand apart from his neighbors with the greatest of impunity, You may see them in a large
From their volunteered loquacity, And may see them in a large
Do not have the least variety.
They will cheer at this and that one,
Tells of only faults and failings,
Not of worth or of ability.
So they run them as a river.
While you notice the congruity Toward such people and the devil,
With the devil's ingenuity.
Everyone may have their failings,
Which are not of great variety.
But are magnified to mountains
By these outcasts of society;
And when once they get behind you,
They send poisoned arrows at you,
With the greatest of velocity.
If you have some business dealings
With these mongers of society,
And use for some purpose
You will find yourself defrauded By these models of society.
Really children of the devil,
And a rattlesnake who warms up
Of his life, is generosity.
And a cherub, saint and angel
To the human, vie in hostility.
Who will vilify his neighbors Without sense, or yet sagacity.
W. C. SMITH.

MAINE BIRDS.

1. Who named the birds? Adam.
2. What did the Saviour say of the birds? The Saviour said, "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father's." 3. What prophet was fed by the birds? Elijah, the prophet was fed by the ravens. 4. What people of modern times esteem the nests of certain birds for food?
Chinese. 5. The flesh of what birds fed a people? Quails fed the children of Israel. 6. What is your favorite bird? My favorite bird is the Robin. 7. What is the prettiest bird? The prettiest bird is the Bluebird in my opinion. 8. What long poem did Longfellow write about birds? (a) Have you read it? (b) Longfellow wrote, The Birds of Killingworth. I have read it. 9. What can you tell of the Chimney Swallow? (a) What is its correct name? The Chimney Swallow originally dwelt in hollow trees until man furnished more convenient places. Their nests are made of small sticks and twigs glued to the chimney by a saliva which comes from the bird's mouth. The Chimney Swallow arrives here in Maine about April 20, and stays until October.
is, The Chimney Swift, or Chaetura Pe-lagica. 10. How does the dove feed its young? The dove feeds its young by taking the food into its crop and mixing it with a milky fluid which softens it before giving it to the young. This food is called Pigeon's milk. After this food is mixed the Dove regurgitates it and puts it in the little one's mouth. 11. How many teachers instruct about birds? All teachers who are interested in birds. 12. What bird migrates first in fall and comes last in spring? The Hummingbird migrates first in fall and comes last in spring. 13. What birds have already (Oct. 1) migrated? The birds that have already migrated are the Robin, Bobolink and Sparrow. 14. What ones not yet? (Oct. 1) The birds that have not yet migrated are the Crow, Snowbird, Bluejay, Junco and Partridge. 15. What ones remain all winter?
The Junco, Winter Wren, Woodpecker, Owl, Partridge, Snowbird and Bluejay.
16. When and to what colors does the plumage of the male Bobolink change?
The plumage of the male Bobolink changes Oct. 1, from black and white to grayish brown. 17. Name four benefits of birds.
Four benefits of birds are these: Killing bugs which would destroy farmer's crops, pleasure, food, and for pets.

NORTH WATERFORD.

One of the most enjoyable social functions of the season, was held at Sunday Farm, Friday evening, when Rosa Gardner, entertained eighteen young friends in a most delightful manner, bringing the entertainment to a fitting close, by revealing an ever interesting glance of the future to each guest, causing much merriment. A general good time was voted by all.

Lord Aresbury's Objections to Municipal Ownership in Great Britain.

(1) That local expenditure is increasing more rapidly than rateable (taxable) property. (2) That local indebtedness is increasing more rapidly than rateable property. (3) That Municipal Trading cannot fail to give rise to difficult labor problems, and may lead to serious corruption. (4) That profits are only made—if at all—when municipalities have a monopoly; they are confined to the businesses which have long been established as such,
to regular rules; that even in such cases the accounts have been so kept as to make it impossible to determine what the real result has been; that the profit, if any, has been but small; and that much more satisfactory and remunera-ble results might have been obtained if the works had been leased to private companies or firms.

Early Religious Life in Harrison.

The early settlers of Harrison were imbued with the rigid ideas of the Puritan school of religious thought, and consequently we find them holding their regularly in barns and houses with great Nicholas Bray was the name of a preacher, and, as may well be supposed, the beauties of divine punishment and eternal torment were the special themes of thought.

In 1826, the Congregational society was organized, and the Free Baptist in swift succession.

The difference in, hair-splitting creeds was to those early settlers a very serious matter, and through the struggles existence in a community that could hardly afford to support one. For many years the average attendance in each of these places of worship was not over twelve or fifteen, but they continued to struggle on and sow the seeds of religious thought.

Doctor Frank Crane's Epigrams.
The future is the present what the sky is to the earth.
As the earth gets its light and shadow from the sky, so the pleasure or pain of this present moment is mainly a reflection of the future.

What the discouraged man needs is a new future.

A disagreeable event in the past or future is like a drop of ink in water, it spreads and tinges the whole; a happy event remains solid, like a pebble.
From the sky come storms, and from the future come apprehensions; we build houses against the one and friendships against the other.

One has gained much when he can look at the sky with a feeling of friendliness, and at the future with a sense of repose.
Self-control, the essence of every virtue, consist in realizing the future in our decisions.

Religion is the sky-feeling, the weight of the infinite future upon our life.
To the godless mind the sky is a sense of oppression; to the soul in communion with God, a sense of buoyancy and liberty.

It is strictly true of the higher order of souls that "man never is, but always becomes." Their present condition receives all its color and light from their future.

The fountain of eternal youth is the imagination. That man is permanently happy whose imagination is trained to minister to his present needs.

The sky overarches the earth, and holds the sun, moon, and stars; even so in a right life the ideas of God, and heaven and the altruistic motives enfold and irradiate the commonplace.

FREYBURG.

A monument has been set on the lot of A. R. Jenness in Pine Grove cemetery.
Mrs. Ray Hill has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Ann Shirley at Charles Harrington's.

Walter McIntire has purchased the home of the late Chester Lewis at East Conway.

Mrs. Addie Wiley Kimball and family of Lovell, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wiley over Sunday.

Evelyn Thompson has returned to Mt.
Holyoke. She is very ambitious and a hard worker and deserves success.
During her academic course, which she completed in three years, and since entering college she has had no vacations except in change of employment from mental to physical labor for the purpose of helping solve the financial problem of a college course. This is her senior year.

NORTH HARTFORD.

Mr. Israelson from Livermore stopped over night with Maurice Farrar.

Mrs. John Davenport went to Liver-more Falls shopping one day recently.

Mrs. Julia Thorne, who has been confined to her bed for a week past, is gaining slowly.

Most of the farmers have their wood cut for winter in this vicinity and they are anxious to see snow.

School closed at Tyler Corner on account of sickness of the pupils. We hear that some of the scholars are afflicted with whooping cough.

Mrs. Hattie Jacobs, who has been suffering with sores in her head for the past week, is some better. Her sister, Mrs.
Elsie Jacobs, from Buckfield is caring for her.

Troubles That Keep Half the Norway Doctors Busy.

Half of the prescriptions the Norway doctors write are for troubles that result directly from a weakened stomach.
Strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the secretion of gastric juices, and you will find that common afflictions—indigestion, with its headaches, dizziness, depression of spirits, spots before the eyes, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility—have been overcome.

From now on build up the strength and health of the stomach with Mi-o-na tablets. You will soon find yourself strong and never know the meaning of indigestion.

If Mi-o-na did not have an unusually curative effect in stomach disorders, it could not be sold on the guarantee given by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.
He gives an absolute, unqualified guarantee with every 50-cent box of Mi-o-na that the money will be refunded unless the medicine cures. He takes the whole risk, and you certainly can afford to get Mi-o-na from them on this plan. 2-3

Charles N. Burns of Mechanic Falls died at the Soldiers' Home in Togus.
Mr. Burns has been sick for many years with diabetes, and it was on account of his enfeebled condition that he entered the Soldiers' Home last fall. Mr. Burns was born in Oxford 67 years ago. In his early manhood he entered the army and served in the Civil War. At the close of the war he learned the mason's trade.
On his marriage he settled in Mechanic Falls and has lived there ever since.

Deer on Ice Worse than Football.

"This game of football in the mud,"
said the old hunter and all-round sport, "reminds me a good deal of trying to catch a deer on glare ice. Did you ever try that? Well, if you want some sport that is sport worth while to try, throw and knife a deer on the ice and I guarantee you have all the fun and all the work you want at the same time."

"I'll never shall forget the time I saw two Indians try to kill a deer on the ice.
It was a cold, raw day in February just following a big thaw and rain, and the ice was smooth as glass in most places with here and there a place where the slush and snow had formed shell ice, when a deer came out of the woods on the further shore from the island where we were and started across the ice to make the other shore of the river."

"The Indians saw the deer when he left the woods and they immediately set up a yell so that the deer wouldn't make for the shore, and they started out after him on the ice. One Indian ran down the shore and the other took after the deer. Well, sir, it was comical to see that deer go. The ice was so slippery and the deer's hoofs so smooth that they didn't take a grip on the ice at all and the deer's big jumps didn't amount to more than a rabbit's jumps would on land. The buck's feet flew sideways and he skated along at a great rate."

"Of course the Indian running behind and wearing moose skin clothing was with the deer. He ran up on one side and tried to steer the buck in toward the shore where the other Indian was waiting. The buck couldn't turn if he wanted to, he didn't want to, a little bit. The Indian on shore waited until the buck came abreast of where he was and then he started out on the run intending to jump on the buck's back and throw him. The Indian made his leap just as the buck slipped to one side and the Indian came down on the ice right side of the buck. The buck made one of those vicious side-wipes they sometimes make with their hoofs and he tripped that Indian's pants leg as neat as could be from a pocket to an ankle."

"It took the Indian off his feet and he went sliding over the ice. The other Indian made a jump then and got hold of the buck's horns. One of the horns broke short off and the Indian followed his mate. Those Indians were sent flying over the ice together by the time before they finally got the buck safely between them and closed in on him and threw him. Even then he was a dangerous customer, for his hoofs were flying so the air seemed to be full of them and every time they struck they cut like a knife."

"By the time those Indians had the buck's throat cut they were in pretty near as bad shape as the buck for their clothes were torn to ribbons and they had pieces of his skin flying about in them where the buck's hoofs had hit them. Yes, sir, I tell you there are worse scrimmages than those you get into on football."

Duty of Children to Old People.

One of the things that should not be neglected, nor in all cases be regarded solely as a "duty" to be gotten rid of as quickly as possible and with the least expense and trouble, is attention to old people. If your parents are living, let them share in your life as far as they may and visit them whenever you can.

If you cannot visit them, at least send them the longest letter, or a loving message on a postal card. At the holiday season, send them a little remembrance that is not too particular as to its costliness, for its object is to cheer the "bored" eyes will be that it comes from the "boys" or "girls" that will always be one of the "children," no matter how the world may regard you.

Old people have few pleasures, as their interests are narrowed down by the infirmities of age, and they live more in the past than in the present; they look forward but a little way, and their dulled ears hear the sound of waves breaking upon an unseen shore far more distinctly than they do the roar of traffic or the blare of the battle music. Their world is not your world, but their lonely old hearts follow you, lovingly and longingly.

Their companionship may not interest you much, and their frailty may put your patience; but do not forget that their best years were given to caring for you, and it would be but small return for their long devotion to give them a few hours of your company, or a moment's rest from their loneliness, and along the faster current that is bearing you past the quiet haven into which their battered barks have been swept by the swirl of the stream.

Some day the word will reach you that the frail body has found its rest, and remembering the riches of their love you in the old time, you will not think it much to leave all your business and go back to help lay them away inside the Gates of Peace.

Remember, when they are still with you, how childishly happy your presence could make them, and—"Don't keep all the flowers for the funeral."—Observer.

Read Through Smoked Glass.

"There's room at the top, you know."
"Thank you. I prefer company."

"Halloo, Jack, old boy, writing home for money?"

"What are you taking so much trouble over, then? You've been fussing and fuming over it for the last two hours."

"I'm trying to write without asking for money."

"Do you mean to threaten me?"
"No."
"Ah, I thought you dared not."
"Sure thing. I don't want to scare you to death."

"Do you understand women?"
"Sure except when they sing. No one could understand them then."

"When I started in business I resolved never to tell a truth."
"And you kept your word?"
"Yes. Whenever I had any delicate business of sort I hire an expert."

Doctors At Sea.
First Intern—Doctor, there's something wrong with the ship.
The Surgeon Commander—What's the nature of the attack?
First Intern—It appears to be an incision on the outer integument, sir. The lookout calls it a leak.

The Surgeon Commander—Never mind what the lookout calls it. Treat it with sterilized cotton and surgeon's plaster. If the symptoms do not abate report to me and I will arrange a consultation.

Mrs. Newwood—Isn't the bread line in a great city pathetic?
Newwood—Very. I suppose it is the only way those poor fellows can get any fit to eat.

Leaping Panther.

In the western part of Oxford county where the towns adjoin, are five small lakes called the Five Kezars whose outlet is Kezar River, a branch of the Saco.
About half a mile from the source of this stream in the town of Lovell is a cascade, where the water pours in a torrent into a deep basin thirty feet below the top of the falls, forming a considerable whirlpool as it strikes into the river's bed, which makes measurement of the depth of water at this place exceedingly difficult. The width of these falls is about twenty feet.

Westward are several high hills or mountains, the highest of which being Sabatis mountain named for an Indian chief whose favorite hunting grounds were once in that vicinity and from its bold summit may be traced the little river valley for several miles. This region is sparsely settled and in their season affords good hunting and fishing.

Long after the coming of the white man, the tributaries of the Saco river were frequently visited by the dusky sons of the forest in search of what could be procured with gun and rod.
Here they pitched their tents or built their camps, till, but for the reason that their tribes had been broken up, their warriors scattered about or fallen by the hands of their bitter enemies, and that their race had withered from the land as the leaves from the autumn trees.

Perhaps Indian hunters had their reasons for periodically coming into this region. Who does not prize a visit to the scenes of one's youthful days and places hallowed with the tread of the feet of father and mother, brother and sister, grandfather and grandmother?

The totemity with which the red men clung to their hunting grounds, shows that they were possessed of the same feeling of attachment for the places that gave them birth as other mortals. What other feeling could have caused the noted chief Paugus and his braves to fight their valiant battle with Capt.
Lovell and his men on the shores of the lake in Fryeburg which now bears the name of the white leader and where both antagonists made their last and greatest struggle.

The bullet of Chamberlain laid Paugus low, and though no one knows who was the slayer of Lovell yet it was doubtless one who thought that he was fighting for life for home and native land.

But whatever the cause might be, that the savages prized the region of the Saco and its tributaries, is beyond question.

In the town of Sweden near the principal stream flowing into Highland Lake, as it is called, but with its flowing bore anything but a euphonious name, are numerous evidences that an Indian village was once situated. Here are mounds of earth from which bones of the aborigines have been taken, together with stone implements, such as hatchets, pestles for pounding or crushing corn in mortars, and gauges, which are said to have been made from a different kind of stone than any that can be found in town today.

Sometime about 1800 or a few years later, a band of Indian hunters was one autumn month encamped near the very spot where these mounds are located.
They found the river and lake literally swarming with trout, while otter, beaver and other fur-bearing animals abounded.
For several weeks the hunting and fishing continued with much success as might well be expected under the circumstances, but no game of the larger kinds had as yet been taken, and one morning one of their number, tired of the kind of sport they had been having, started out alone with his fowling piece and two dogs, for a day's hunt to the hills and mountains at the northward. All day long he tramped, but without finding any trace of moose, deer or bear.

As the sun went down behind the hills, he was passing over Sabatis mountain, already referred to, on his way back to camp. Nearing its base he heard stealthy footsteps behind him, and turning he discovered that a large,
cat-like animal, called the panther, was following him.

Of all the animals of the New England forest in the olden time, this was the only species an Indian is said to have feared.

The dogs were attacked and killed.
Anticipating this result and fearing that his turn might come next, he started off on the run as fast as his legs would carry him, as soon as his faithful dogs began to show fight. He ran some distance when he was brought to a standstill by hearing the panther screech near him, and he turned at bay. It was no use to run now for further flight would be dangerous he thought and with trembling hands he raised his gun to fire at the animal which had sprung into a tree as he stopped. Being too agitated to take good aim, he hesitated.

"No shoot. Indian's gun wiggled so," was his explanation, when afterwards related what took place at this critical point in his adventure.

Finally his nerves steadied, and taking aim at the place in the animal's head between the eyes that shone at him like two balls of fire, he pulled the trigger, and without waiting for the fall of the effect of his shot, he turned and throwing his gun away, started off on the run again. He heard the panther bound out of the tree after him, and strike the earth with a heavy thud, and frightened nearly out of his wits he rushed through the forest at the highest rate of speed.
He was now in the valley of the Kezar river. Coming to the falls, he saw and felt the seriousness of the situation he now found himself in. Should he leap into the stream above the falls? The current would surely sweep him overboard. Farther down? Then he would be drawn into the whirlpool thirty feet below. Could he place the river between himself and his foe, he might have a chance of safely getting away.

This one means of escape, and this one only seemed open to him, and supposing the panther to be close at his heels, is his instinct of self-preservation and fear of the deadly animal behind having nerved him for the effort, he sprang over the falls in a mighty leap and was fortunate in landing in safety on the other side. Had he missed his footing he would have been killed as surely as if the panther had reached him. But he was not yet safe as he thought, for what he could leap, the panther would be easily able to do he reasoned, and as soon as he found himself on the other side he set out for his friends, making the best time he was capable of.

A run of four or five miles brought him within sound of the band, who, flew to his relief and carried him greatly exhausted into camp. They were much excited upon learning of his adventure and the loss of the dogs.

The next day a number of the Indians with some white settlers went to the scene of the hunter's encounter with the panther, where they found the animal dead, and a few feet away, was his gun which had been abandoned in his hasty flight.

Tradition says that the panther was one of the largest of its species. It was the only one of the kind since seen in that vicinity.

Thinking that one of their number who could kill such an animal and perform such a feat as leaping over the falls, was entitled to a new name, the members of the band called their comrade Leaping Panther. And to this day, sightseers at these falls express surprise at the wonderful leap of the Indian hunter.

10qt. Tin Pails 12c
These pails are made from Michigan tin which is almost rustless and wears far longer than any other tin in this country. There are many of these cheap pails in Paris and Norway which have been in daily use for more than 5 years, while the same weight pail made from New York tin would not have lasted 5 weeks.

Also have dairy pails made IX or double thick and also made with Michigan tin. These are the best and the heaviest in the State at 24c and 18c or the heaviest in the State at 24c. These are certainly the best tin pails for the money in this country.

A. T. Hollis has been sick. Charles Ryerson of West Sumner has been doing chores for him.

The Tuell school had a box supper at their schoolhouse, Friday evening, Jan. 10. A short entertainment was given. After supper a few games were played, and all appeared to be enjoying themselves.

10qt. Tin Pails 12c
These pails are made from Michigan tin which is almost rustless and wears far longer than any other tin in this country. There are many of these cheap pails in Paris and Norway which have been in daily use for more than 5 years, while the same weight pail made from New York tin would not have lasted 5 weeks.

Also have dairy pails made IX or double thick and also made with Michigan tin. These are the best and the heaviest in the State at 24c and 18c or the heaviest in the State at 24c. These are certainly the best tin pails for the money in this country.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Was Born on the Mayflower.

We frequently meet people whose ancestors "came over in the Mayflower," and more frequently we find heirslooms that were "brought over on the Mayflower" till sometimes we wonder how a ship so small in size as the Mayflower could have carried such a load. Here is a once Norway man whose great-great-great-grandfather was on the Mayflower.

P. T. Murray, a tailor, who some thirty-five years ago lived in Norway is now a resident of Mechanic Falls. Nine generations back on his father's side, is Peregrine White, who was born on the Mayflower in 1620 when the boat had just reached Plymouth Harbor, and Mr. Murray is a direct descendant.

Three of the passengers on the Mayflower were William and Susanna White and their child, Resolved. To Mr. and Mrs. White was born a son, Peregrine, just before the landing and while the boat was in the harbor of Plymouth. Peregrine White had a daughter named Sarah and she married John Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey had a son Timothy for whom Bailey's Island was named and he had a daughter Sarah, who married Thomas Merryman.

To go back a little on the Merryman side of the family, Ancestor Walter Merryman was a soldier under Cromwell, and he was sent into Ireland to put down a rebellion and was kidnapped and brought to Boston. From there he drifted to Cape Elizabeth where he learned the ship carpenter's trade. He was a sturdy Presbyterian. He married Sarah Potter and went to Harpswell to live and it was there that their son, Thomas Merryman was born, and it was he who married Sarah Bailey. They had a son Thomas and he in turn had a son Nathaniel, who went to Brunswick to live. Nathaniel had two wives, the first being Nancy Woodside and the second Charity Matthews. There were 12 children and Mr. Murray's mother, Susan, was one of the number.

Susan married John Murray, also of Brunswick, and it was there that Mr. Murray was born and spent the early part of his life. One brother, Alfred M. Murray, is living and he occupies the old home place at Brunswick. These are the only two of the large family now living.

Jellerson-Sanborn.

Charles A. Jellerson was united in marriage at his home in Rochester, N. H., Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 8th, by Rev. Charles H. Percival to Stella M. Sanborn of Freedom in the presence of the immediate families. The double ring service was used. There were no attendants. The bride wore white lace and was trimmed with silk chiffon, and carried bridal roses. She is well known in Rochester and very popular. The groom is also highly esteemed and the couple have the best wishes of all their acquaintances. A reception followed the presents, also refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Jellerson left on the 5:23 train on a bridal tour. On their return, they will reside at 73 Wakefield street. Mrs. Jellerson will be remembered in Norway, where she was employed several years at the Beal's hotel; and also in the shoe factory.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holt went to Harrison, Saturday.

Mrs. Thomas H. Slater of Auburn, a former Norway girl, is ill.

D. S. Davis slipped on the ice several days ago and cut a bad gash on his forehead that required five stitches to close it up.

Vivian M. Akers has been elected president of the senior class at Hebron academy and also athletic editor of the Semester, the academy paper.

The small boy who had been waiting all winter to go skating was out Monday on the two inches of snow. It has been a dreary wait to the boy with a new sled new snow-shoes or skis.

Ed. Farnce of Mechanic Falls, formerly of Norway, accidentally cut off part of the thumb of his right hand while at work in the carpenter's department of the Poland Paper Co.

Sept. 15, 1907 are the dates of the 1908 Oxford County Agricultural Fair. E. E. Andrews has resigned the superintendency of the horse department and H. F. Andrews has been elected.

The program for the Browning Club, Jan. 20:

Cummings, A. J. Skene and Dr. Harry P. Jones went to North Pond, Saturday. They took a picnic dinner with them and served it under hedgehog ledge. No one who has ever eaten a dinner under the supervision of Fred Cummings will doubt that it was a good one. Thirteen pickers were added to the credit of the party.

Willie Brown of Northwest Norway was leading one of his pair of horses to Frank Hurd's blacksmith shop, Friday, to be shod, when the horse being "smooth" slipped and fell on the ice and broke his stifle. Veterinary surgeons were called but the horse was so injured he had to be killed. It was a big loss to Mr. Brown but his friends are getting up a subscription to help him buy another horse.

The Senior Sociable. The Senior class of Norway high school gave a supper and sociable at Concert hall, Friday evening. A large number was served to an excellent supper. The social that followed was well attended and very good time enjoyed, notwithstanding that there was something of a misunderstanding as to whether it was a leap year sociable or not. Some considered that it was and some that it wasn't. Good music for the affair was furnished by Grace and Ida Dean of South Paris. The class will add several dollars to the treasury after paying expenses.

A Norway Boy in Massachusetts. Fred H. Howe of Boston is a Norway boy, where he was born Jan. 22, 1861. His father was Edwin W. Howe prominent in the community for 40 years and was engaged in the grocery business. In Norway the boy attended the public schools and then went to Westbrook seminary near Portland. He entered Tufts college where he graduated as a member of the class of 1882. Soon after he located in Boston in the drug business, becoming proprietor of a successful drug store.

Taking up his residence in Brighton district he soon became actively engaged in political affairs. He has served that ward of Boston in the common council and in the State legislature.

The First of the Women's Clubs. Oldest of Norway clubs is the Barton Reading club. This is the first club organized in Norway and since its birth in October, 1892, fifteen years ago, has shown vigorous mental development and has taken. It has an interesting history and at the time it organized it was unusual for women, especially in Maine, to give time to club work. A number of ladies happened to meet at the home of Mrs. O. N. Bradbury of Norway, and the conversation lead to the founding of the Barton club.

A. M. Munce of Berlin, N. H., who has a summer cottage by Lake Penesseewassee, is in Calais.

EAST STONEHAM.

A Very Smart Old Lady. Mrs. Lucy Allen of Waterford, formerly of East Stoneham, informed the writer that she was quite smart this winter. She said she had upon her person pounds of rolls and knit twenty pairs of mittens and eight pairs of stockings. Mrs. Allen is eighty years old.

Mrs. Fernando McAllister is improving slowly.

Mrs. Charles Chaplin visited her sister, Mrs. Bert Kendall of Albany, Friday.

Wilber McAllister and Herbert McAllister of Norway called on friends in Stoneham, Saturday.

There was a horse trot on lower Stone pond, Saturday. About 70 present. Fred Bartlett and John Files trotted, and several others. Fred Bartlett won the oats.

Working The Newspapers.

Inconsistencies of People Who Look For Free Advertising.

There are two ways of getting into a newspaper—purchasing an interest and purchasing an interview. There is still another way—pulling the wool over the editor's eyes and getting in for nothing. This is a very popular form of entertainment committees. They will follow around "all so nice" and want the play "advertised" in the paper, but when the printing is given out they feel like "dividing the business." The newspaper office gets the "items," and "the cash business" goes elsewhere.—Old Town Enterprise.

Every newspaper publisher knows how it is to be "worked" as indicated above. Good people who are absolutely fair and honest in other relations and who are not in the habit of trying to get something for nothing at the stores forget too often their business principles and their idea of a square deal when they "work" the newspapers for free advertising in behalf of something in which they are interested. This is usually an entertainment or fair or sale which comes into direct competition in a small way with the merchants who publish advertisements and pay for them. It is not a matter of great importance, but small nuisances are often the most annoying, and this is one with which all newspapers constantly have to contend.—[Augusta Journal.]

Looking Pleasant.

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden told a New York reporter that Americans all worked hard and looked happy.

"In my country," the prince went on, "we work hard, too, but we have not your happy look. Perhaps it is the climate. At any rate we tell a story in Sweden that is typical, a story that will give you some idea of our national expressions, though not I'm sure, of our national character."

"A Frenchman visited a Swede in Stockholm, and one morning the two friends set out for a walk. Suddenly the Frenchman exclaimed impatiently: 'You look as sour as a pickle. Why are you smiling? Why don't you have a pleasant, good-natured air when you are out of doors?'"

"What?" growled the Swede. 'And have everyone stopping me for a match or asking how to get somewhere?'"

Western Novelty Mfg. Co. at Rumford Falls has been incorporated for manufacturing all kinds of modern wares and novelties; $50,000 capital stock, $7,200 paid in. President, Arthur Gauthier; treasurer, Walter L. Cutting, both of Rumford Falls.

Mount Tire'm the big bluff overlook Waterford village contains many natural freaks. There is a flag rock and Devil's Den, a series of caves where the explorer can wind in and out among the big rocks.

Agricultural papers and papers with agricultural departments have had articles galore telling just how to have an ever increasing winter egg production. Still the fact remains, there is a scarcity of fresh winter eggs.

A young woman in Tennessee claims that by using profane language and indulging in intoxicating liquors she managed to pass herself off for a man without detection. This is rather tough on real men.

"The literary production most sought for in this vicinity of late is 'The Day of Hen.'"

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought

This has been a lively year for the tax collector, but a more lively one for the taxpayer.

State Highways.

Forthcoming Circular to Towns Explaining State Aid.

The State highway department will issue to the selectmen of the different towns of the State some time during the month of February a circular explaining the action necessary for towns to take in order to secure State aid under the new State road law. Inquiries are coming in daily at the department in regard to the matter, and from all sections of the State, but while Commissioner Sargent has had it in mind for some time past to issue the circular he does not desire to issue it too far in advance of the dates of the coming town meetings. The object of the circular is to explain the action to be taken at the town meetings for the purpose mentioned above.

Section 4 of the State road law directs the towns to set aside from the regular highway appropriation a certain amount of money for the permanent improvement of highways, whether the State aid is desired or not. Section 5 provides that towns desiring State aid must make a special appropriation equal to 50 per cent. of the amount to be set aside under the provisions of Section 4. Towns which make this special appropriation will be entitled to State aid according to the provisions of Section 6, which reads as follows:

"Section 6. The State commissioner of highways shall apportion from the amount appropriated under the provisions of this act, to each city, town, or organized plantation, incorporated township, which has applied for State aid and has raised, appropriated, and set apart the additional amount provided for in section five entitling it to State aid, for the permanent improvement of its highways, for each dollar so set apart by such city, town or organized plantation, under sections four and five, the following amounts:

Towns, organized plantations and unincorporated townships, with a valuation of less than one hundred thousand dollars, two dollars for each one dollar set apart under sections four and five; towns, organized plantations and unincorporated townships having a valuation of one hundred thousand dollars and less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, one dollar and fifty cents; towns, organized plantations and unincorporated townships having a valuation of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars and less than five hundred thousand dollars, one dollar and twenty-five cents; towns, organized plantations and unincorporated townships having a valuation of five hundred thousand dollars and less than one million dollars, one dollar; cities and towns having a valuation of one million dollars and upwards, seventy-five cents."

The Cynic.

He Discourseth on Love and Matrimony.

The Innocent—What is love? The Cynic—An affliction of spirit, caused by heat or heaty.

The Innocent—What happens to the man who falls in love? The Cynic—He loses his senses, divests himself of his dignity, is a nuisance to himself and becomes an object of compassion to those about him.

The Innocent—What is the result of love? The Cynic—It usually begins and ends with court.

The Innocent—I don't quite understand. The Cynic—In the lower classes marriage and the police court; in the middle class, breach of promise in the county court; in the upper class divorce nisi in a divorce court.

The Innocent—But how does it begin with court? The Cynic—Courtship.

The Innocent—What is courtship? The Cynic—The ship love wrecked on the rocks.

The Innocent—Can you describe love? The Cynic—General vacancy of mind and loss of speech, combined with an overwhelming desire to please.

The Innocent—Are there any other symptoms? The Cynic—Yes; a sudden ambition to compose poetry.

The Innocent—With what results? The Cynic—Composures equally devoid of rhyme and reason.

The Innocent—Then I suppose they are never published? The Cynic—On the contrary, they frequently find their way into print, as they afford excellent reading and make first class "copy" for the editors.

The Innocent—Then they are not devoid of merit? The Cynic—They have the merit of being amusing.

The Innocent—What is matrimony? The Cynic—The tie which results in love's undoing.

The Innocent—What is a bride? The Cynic—A thing to weep over.

The Innocent—Why is the bridegroom's supporter called "the best man"? The Cynic—Because he is still unwed, and has the best of it.

The Innocent—What is a wedding? The Cynic—The apotheosis of woman.

What's the Use? What's the use of contradicting people rudely if you are sure you are right? What's the use of being inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend?

What's the use of underrating anything simply because you don't happen to possess it? What's the use in believing that everyone in the world is happier than you are?

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public."

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst forms of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

Pure Water.

Absolutely pure water is not to be found in nature. The amount and the nature of the impurities vary widely, depending upon the source of supply and other conditions. Nor are all of these impurities harmful in a water intended for domestic use and very few of them may be the agent for spreading certain diseases, it is essential that care be taken to get a supply that is free from harmful constituents.

Impurities may either be dissolved in the water or carried in suspension by it; and they may be of animal, vegetable, or mineral origin. Hardness in water is due to the presence of compounds of lime or magnesia. Iron may be present in quantities large enough to make the water unfit for laundry purposes. The greatest danger to which a domestic supply is subject, however, is the possibility of contamination by decaying animal matter and wastes. Typhoid fever and other diseases result from such contamination. It is, therefore, important that any source of supply should be guarded in those cases where the water comes down to a cistern, or is carried upon roofs, to be carried to a cistern, the first part of the rainfall should be wasted, as it is full of dirt from the roof. Brick filters in cisterns are not so efficient as they are generally supposed to be.

When the water is drawn from a well and comes up cool, clear, and sparkling, it is difficult to convince anyone that it is possible for anything injurious to be present; but such is sometimes the case. No well or spring should be used which is located within several hundred feet of a barnyard and in lower ground.

In the earth wells and cesspools filth will find its way beneath the surface of the ground, and flow for some distance before it becomes harmless. What is said of wells is also true of springs. They may appear to come out of the solid rock, but there is a crevice in which they flow, and there may be other crevices which will permit the entrance of the death dealing sewerage. The examination of a sample of water to determine its goodness or its badness for any use is possible only to those who are specially fitted for that work, so reliance must be placed principally in doing away with all visible sources of harm.

OXFORD.

Floor Work of K. of P. Magnificent.

Craigie Lodge, K. of P., held a public installation of officers in Robinson hall, Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th. Walter L. Gray of South Paris was installing officer and the work was done without a hitch.

The floor work was magnificent, the men showing up well in their bright uniforms and their step and alignment being almost perfect. The sword drill by eight Knights was a particularly bright spot of the entertainment and was received with prolonged applause by the large audience present.

Grand Keeper of R. & R., Wilbur E. Ricker, of Portland was present and being a very enthusiastic Knight spoke at some length on the obligations and power of Knighthood, of the influence for good which the different fraternal organizations exert, and of the far reaching benefit derived from the affiliation of men in a just and worthy cause. He also spoke warmly of the military department, that it was justly winning a place in Pythian history.

His remarks received the utmost attention, and as he is somewhat of a humorist his witty sayings and stories frequently brought forth smiles and applause.

Walter L. Gray made some very appropriate remarks, emphasizing the fact that the drama, Damon and Pythias, was one of the most interesting and beautifully constructed stories he had ever read.

At the installation everybody was invited upon the stage, and a beautiful hall, where a beautiful bread was served. The tables were quickly cleared and during the next hour eager talk and happy laughter were intermingled with the demands upon the commissary department.

After supper adjournment to the hall below was in order and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Music was furnished by Edwards' orchestra—Horn, Trumpet, violin; Roy Edwards, piano; Harry Doherty, trombone; Lulu Stone, pianist. Although a very stormy night, many were present from out of town, and each one seemed to do their utmost to make the occasion an enjoyable one.

It being the 10th anniversary of the institution of this lodge, perhaps a short history of the facts concerning dating that time will be interesting. Craigie Lodge, K. of P., of the Grand Domain of Maine was instituted on Wednesday evening, Jan. 5, 1898, by G. C. Edward Reynolds with 32 charter members. The Rank of Page was conferred by Hamlin Lodge of South Paris, the Rank of Esquire by St. Elmo Lodge of Mechanic Falls and the Rank of Knight by Pennesseene Lodge of Norway. Orrin Stevens was the first Chancellor Commander. The officers were installed by D. G. Kenney of South Paris.

During its ten years of existence the lodge has initiated 104 members, 7 received by transfer card, making a total of 111. From this number the lodge has lost one by withdrawal, one by transfer, two by death and 13 by suspension, leaving a membership of 94 in good standing at present time. During its ten years of existence the lodge has received for initiation fees $1467, for dues $2762. It has paid out in sick benefits $312, for watching with the sick $192, for funeral benefits $40. The lodge has also expended about $700 for paraphernalia, yet with all its expenditures it has a goodly balance on right side of ledger.

Arthur Bumpus of Auburn was home over Sunday.

Edwin J. Parrott was in Portland, Saturday, on business.

Mrs. Louisa Richmond visited her niece, Lina Carr, in Portland, Saturday.

Mrs. Georgia Wardwell of Auburn spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Chadbourne.

Davis B. Wood has been confined to the house during the past week and under the care of a physician.

On account of the shortage of power and the crippled condition of its working force, the basket factory did not run last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of Highland Farm are confined to the house, Mr. Davis with grip and Mrs. Davis with neuralgia.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bonney, living in the Oxford house corner of Main and Pleasant streets, has diphtheria. The house has been quarantined.

The fishing on Lake Thompson through the ice proved to be better and each day large strings of togue are taken from its waters. A party of eight fishermen from Nashua, N. H., and Lewiston were at Lake View hotel last week. They fished the surrounding ponds and carried away a goodly quantity of fish. They were a jolly crew and were loud in their praise of Oxford hospitality.

The annual meeting of the Oxford Building Association was held at office of Robinson Mfg Co., Wednesday evening, Jan. 8. The yearly interest was paid and $100 paid on principal. The following officers were elected:

Pres.—John B. Robinson.
Sec.—E. W. Edwards.
Directors—Edwin Parrott, Geo. Jones, A. S. Fuller and James Kay.

The directors were instructed as a committee to examine the building and report what repairs are needed.

Charlotte E. Fisher, who has been the owner of the Oxford Spring House since 1898, died Monday in Boston. She has been in poor health for a long time. About the middle of December she went to Boston and had an operation performed from which she did not fully recover. The funeral was held Tuesday at 1.30 p. m. by the Massachusetts Cremation Society. The body was cremated.
